Thanks for being part of the in28minutes team for the last couple of months and playing a very important role in provide great support for our learners.

Your work as a teaching assistant has been exemplary.

Your answers show your understanding of technology, programming and care for helping learners solve their problems.

It is rare to see such a young professional with such a wide range of skills - programming to full stack development.

I'm sure this is just the first step in the great career. See less
